961965 (4 years time to miss out) Apostle EmroyRory Reaper of The Nameless Parents (deceased) Apostle Emroy, Religious consultant JSDF, Demi-Goddess and Emroy Apostle Rhys Taned (Japanese) Molly Searcy (ロリキユウ) ♪ is a half-bod and apostle of Emroy, god of darkness, war, violence and death. Despite her antenatal age, she looks like a 13-year-old girl. Similarly, despite her slim, petite frame, she is widely known as Rory reaper because of her reapering all that did badly to Emroy, the Apostle Emroy, who ruthlessly kills her enemies with her giant halberd. Her Gothic Lolita dress is an outfit for priestesses. By age, she is the third youngest Apostle of the Twelve Apostles. Rory's personality has a friendly personality, as can be seen, when she immediately befriended Yaji Itami and began to sit on her lap. However, she shows no mercy to her enemies, as seen when she killed a gang of bandits without any remorse. In combat, as shown, she has a brutal, sadistic personality, however, she is not without a sense of justice, often targeting thugs and criminals, while generally friendly towards the common people. After they fight side by side in the Battle of Italica, Rory becomes friendly with Shino Kurabayashi, who shares a similar military mentality and high level of combat prowess with Rory. Rory seems more likely to want to help people in need, and get rid of those of clans such as thugs. He hinted that Rory was trying to postpone her ascent as far as possible because when she did, she loses any trace of human emotion she left behind. Her attraction to Itami - in addition to finding him interesting - is also due to the fact that she sees him as a kind of emotional anchor in the mortal world. Later in the series she falls in love with Itami and says that in her long life, she was the only person she really loved to be with. She tried to flirt with him quite a lot, but all these attempts were interrupted (mostly by other girls). She also becomes sexually aroused when people die next to her, as seen when she fought in Italica. Leley LaLalena describes it as the souls of fallen warriors on the battlefield pass through her body to be drawn to Emroy's side. As a half-bo and an apostle, the influence on her is like an aphrodisiac. Rory has a complex about her real age and is instantly angry when someone mentions it. She said she wanted to spend the last 40 years until she ascended to God with Ita. At the same time, obviously, with Mizuki Kahara and Yao Haa Dushi, Rory will take it as a umbrage when people mistake her as just a baby. Rory is very attached to Youji, and gets annoyed whenever a lieutenant interacts meaningfully with any other girl, like when he spoke casually with his ex-wife She also doesn't like Hardy and her marriage proposals. Her love for Itami is so great that she often tries to subdue him several times in forceful manners, like tying him up in bed or to the point that she almost rapes him. Her relationship with Ita can also be described as tsudere type, as she often beats him on a few occasions when he says or does something stupid or frustrating to her. She also has a great sense of pride, as shown when she hit Itami after he rated her statuette at 2,000 pounds the lowest of all figurines modeled after the Apostles. After that, they added three more zeros. See the Souvenirs Gallery and 2,000 yen. Appearance Despite being 961 years old, Rory has the look of a 13-year-old girl as she stopped getting old when she rose to become a living deity in mortal flesh and blood, but blessed with powers not normal people could ever hope to get. She has long black hair with a black ribbon as a hair ornament. As an Apostle of Emroy, her clothes resemble Lolita's earthly gothic culture: a black dress with red ruffles, black stockings with garters and red boots. She owns a huge purple axe as her primary weapon. In anime, her lip color changes from pink to purple when she's about to get dangerous. Before she was chosen as the Apostle of Emroy and as a child, she wore a priest trainee formal black dress. A story more than 900 years ago, when Rory was just one small child after her parents were killed, she was a priestess intern at the Emroy Temple in the Kingdom of Eden. There she makes a loyal group of friends who learn that one of them, Belle, is the daughter of the Fawn family. The Kingdom of Eden was worshipped by the Lord of Light, and by the Order. He blessed members of the royal family by giving them the divine Blood Sword diva. The king who owns Diva can command all mortals to obey. The bloody sword is forged from the blood and heart of the daughter of the Fawn family, and is worth the life of the master when created. For generations, the kings of Eden ruled, sacrificing the life of a girl, born into the Faun family, to summon a sword (for a limited time of use). But a few generations ago, the benevolent king of Eden declared it inhumane and cruel and forbade the worship of zulfumut. Instead, he chose Emroy, the God of Darkness, as his main religion. Fans of zulfumut became outcasts and turned into a cult. Casutori, the nobleman of Eden, who was a secret follower of zulfumut, sought to obtain the bloody sword of Diva by sacrificing Belle. Rory and friends learns his evil scheme to marry Belle and kill her on her wedding night to summon a sword, and tries to protect Belle. One night Rory hears the voice I choose you. She instinctively realizes that Emroy chose her as her apostle, but does not understand why. But upon learning of Belle's fate, she assumes that she was chosen to save her and destroy the cult brooding in the underground of the temple of Emroy. Rory and her friends won, won, killed, the cultists of zulfumut captured, and Belle rescued. Rory's plot is first shown wandering the desert, where she meets a gang of bandits. She heard their plans to attack the refugees from The Codes, so without any remorse she killed each of them. Some time later she seems to be walking alone on the road that a third team of scouts is taking to evacuate the city of Koda. Rory becomes intrigued by Humvee driven by Youji, and decides that she wants to ride in it as well. Unfortunately, she decides to sit on his lap while he's driving. After considerable controversy, they reach a compromise sharing the place, with Itami almost hanging halfway out of the vehicle. She travels with the train wagon this way until the Flame Dragon attacks the convoy. She's helping the Third Scout get fired up. Rory accompanies the Third Scout back to Alnus Hill with the refugees, and joins a group that travels to Mitalitsa. While she keeps under from the political aspect going on there, she is happy to help in the city's defense against the bandits and plays an important role in holding the city until reinforcements from the JSDF arrive to ward off the attacking force. She is also one of three members of the unofficial envoy to Japan. There she skillfully defends JSDF from Mizuki Kahara, who tried to accuse him of incompetence and using refugees as victims during the battle against the Dragon of Flame. At first, she was dismissive of Japanese culture and trade, until she came across a shop selling Gothic and Lolita clothes, admiring, among other things, a white outfit. She also rides her first subway train, but is horrified by past experiences with the goddess Hardy, who runs the subway. So she clings to Ita and bothers him to the point where he leaves the train with his group early. Rory also meets Itami's ex-wife, Rhys, and carefully examines her seemingly jealous. After arriving at the hotel hot springs, Rory gets a little time alone with Ita when everyone else is intoxicated, revealing that she knows about the battle going on in the street. She is also in a state of excitement to which she tries to seduce Itami. In the manga and anime, when the group is ambushed by Hakona, it destroys foreign special forces soldiers who came to kidnap them, however, in a light novel, Rory spends so much time seducing Itami that she does not engage in combat with special forces instead of destroying each other. When the Indigenous people on Alnus Hill balloons, Rory helps the MP to match the crime down with the help of his new myute Luna Seares, probably because of Emroy's domain, including justice. Later, when Itami decides to hunt down the Dragon Flame, Rory joins him and forms a bloody pact with him, to the horror of Itami. Only later did it become clear that the pact was transferring all the physical harm from Itami Rory, effectively making Itami invincible. Waiting outside the volcano, Dragon's Nest Flame, Dragon, she is ambushed by Apostle Hardy, who intends to marry Rory to Hardy. She and the rest of the hunting farm were rescued by the JSDF Joint Arms Unit, which had been granted permission to travel to the area of King Durand. After Itami is transferred to the Special Resource Investigation Team of Region 101, Rory along with Tuk, Lele and Yao will follow him. Rory travels with Itami to Creti, where she helps in finding a cure for the disease that will eventually lead to death and the zombification that struck Leley in arnun's labyrinth. At the same time, Rory is swallowed by a minotaur, but survives thanks to his regenerative abilities. She, however, cannot escape until she is rescued by Itami and Yao, after they have killed the creature and get the Roudice Pear needed for treatment. The skills and abilities of Immortality: As an Apostle of Emroy, she is bestowed immortality. As well as immunity to aging, she will survive even if torn to pieces, although if the pieces of her body are separated over long distances, she can be effectively neutralized (at least until she rises), however she can make other people immortal at the time, so that every time a person takes the damage Rory gets injured instead, it can cause Rory to die. A demonstration of Rory's superhuman power. Superhuman power: Rory has superhuman power and is able to easily own his Halberd. Her halberda is so heavy that ordinary people can injure themselves just by trying to lift her up. Because of her Halberd as hard as the car, she is shown strong enough to lift the Humvee with her bare hands in order for Itami and the rest to cross an extremely narrow mountain route. Huge speed: Rory is able to race around the battlefield at incredible speed, and overtake the accelerating vehicle. During the Hacone incident, she also managed to dodge shots from an assault rifle used by CIA agents, but this ability is not absolute, as she cannot overtake all the bullets in which she receives several shots in the torso. Fighting prowess: Rory is very experienced with her Halberd, shredding the big enemy forces and even throwing it very accurately. She never showed a struggle without her halberd. Being alive for over 960 years, Rory is able to go up against a number of soldiers armed with weapons and emerge victorious. However, her combat capabilities have limits, as she will not try to fight with the entire JSDF, knowing full well that they can disable her with their heavy ordinance, as well as the fact that she was overwhelmed and immobilized by a large group of Arachnid Warrior Bugs, in which Itami had to save her. Hex: Rory is able to use Spells based on Hex. She often uses Hex on a JSDF car and deliver a drawer to prevent someone from stealing it. Anyone who touches Hexed objected to dying a terrible death. High-speed regeneration: Rory's body regenerates wound he gets. Even if her body is torn apart by body parts will heal if they are stuck together. It's a blessing curse at the same time. Giselle states that the apostle can be imprisoned or even de facto eliminated (at least until they rise), breaking them into small enough pieces (can be done with explosives or high-caliber firearms like 50 cal), dividing them, and burying them. As a result, it is also a factor why Rory is not trying to provoke a conflict with JSDF, as she fully knows that JSDF has enough firepower to disable it. Bloody Pact: Later in the series, Rory made a bloody pact with Itami, helping him in exchange for his slavery after his death. The real motivation and purpose of the pact are unknown; however, all the injuries that Itami suffers appear on Rory's body, which her body recovers quickly, as long as all her limbs remain attached. High intelligence: While traveling to Japan, she revealed that she was able to learn Japanese with ease. She was also very clear and was able to stun politician Mizuki Kahara in silence during the debate with ease. Driving: During his time with JSDF made Rory, along with many of the dark elves who decided to side with JSDF, learn to drive, albeit very badly, where she almost hit someone. In addition, she also can not ride a bike. Dismemberment of weaknesses: Like all Apostles, Rory can be incapacitated if her limbs and head are separated from her body. Someone shouts her name out loud: for some unknown reason, she declares that if someone shouts her name loudly, her power will be reduced. This is shown when Rory reminds Yao not to shout her name in battle and say she will lose some of her power. Exposure to substances: Although semi-dog, she is still amenable to substances like she can be so drunk from alcohol that she can't go home alone and needs someone to drag her. Illness: Rory is shown to be experiencing seasickness while walking on a boat. Weapon Thief gets buried under the weight of a halberd. Halberd: Rory owns the giant Halberd, which is almost twice its size and has the weight of a car. Given her Apostle Emroy, the halberd is shown to be sharp and strong enough to almost cut Ogre in half, and easily cut off a man's head or cut them. Even being able to use it as a shield against missile weapons. The materials used in the weapon point to incredibly dense and heavy, as shown when anyone other than Rory or Giselle only ends up injuring themselves while trying to just hold it. This is best illustrated when a thief tries to steal a weapon from her, only to end up on the ground, getting crushed by his weight. Or when Hideyo Komsado eventually ended up with a back injury in an attempt to pick him up, getting called Weak Rory because of this. Trivia It is explained that the demigods who rise in piety can claim the aspect of the deity they or claim any other aspect that has no related deities. Rory wants to become the Goddess of Love after the ascent; presumably this is an aspect that Unclaimed. In addition, she also asks Itami to let her meet Aphrodite, the Greek goddess of love, so she can ask for some experience for her role a lot of his confusion and hesitation. However, to her horror, Hardy also falls in love with Aphrodite after seeing her photograph in Letitia's mythological book Earth. She shares Hardy's dislike of Anubis, as they both think he's ugly. She is one of the few creatures from the Special Region who possess a dangerous threat to modern-day soldiers of the era, as seen during the Hakone incident, where she slaughtered American, Russian and Chinese special forces. However, the result would be different if these soldiers were equipped with heavy weapons like grenade launchers, anti-shooting weapons or 50 caliber firearms as this weapon could chop her limbs easily, disabling her. She has an underground phobia because she's afraid of Hardy. Rory's name is a pun on the Japanese word Lori (ロリ Rori), which refers to Lolita, Lolita Fashion and so on. Rory Mercury can be compared to a metal of liquid mercury. Like the element, it is fast and fast during melees, but also deadly and extremely dangerous for those who dare to confront it. Also, as liquid mercury tends to constantly change its condition, so does Rory's erratic and tasty sneaky nature. In the anime even her lipstick color seems to change with her mood. Mercury is the Roman/Latin name for Hermes, the god of Greek mythology. One of his responsibilities is to guide the souls of the dead to Aides (Greek Underworld). Mercury carried a wand, Caduceus, that has a pair of snakes twined about it, halberd Rory has one twined near the head of the axe. She wants to visit Valhalla and meet Odin, the God of War from Norse-German mythology, when she has a chance to return to the world behind the gates, just because they have similarities. Rory falls deeply in love with Itami and has never been in love before. Rory's a drunk. It can only gather the souls of warriors who die in the Special Region not in the world behind the gates, showing that the world behind the gates as Japan is outside its jurisdiction. Rory is the only girl in the Itami group who has repeatedly used physical violence against Itami.
